DARIEN GEE

The Avalon Ladies Scrapbooking Society

“Heartwarming inspiration, humor, wisdom and endless charm. Gee is an author to keep a close eye on!” — Romantic Times Book Reviews

“A three-hanky nod to It’s a Wonderful Life . . . A surefire book club hit.”
— *Publishers Weekly

In the little town of Avalon, Illinois — population 4,243 — some residents scrapbook their memories and make new ones, while others struggle to free themselves from the past.

Isabel Kidd is fixing up her ramshackle house while sorting through the complications of her late husband’s affair. Ava Catalina is mourning the love of her life and helping her young son grow up without his father. Yvonne Tate is smart, beautiful, and new to Avalon, but finds that despite a decade of living life on her own terms, the past has a way of catching up. And Frances Latham, mother to a boisterous brood of boys, eagerly anticipates the arrival of a little girl from China — unprepared for the emotional roller coaster of foreign adoption.

Bettie Shelton, the irascible founder of the Avalon Ladies Scrapbooking Society, has a way of bringing together even the most reluctant Avalonians. But when the group receives unexpected news about their steadfast leader, they must pull together to create something truly memorable.

Fly Away

SIMULTANEOUS
RELEASE

Tully Hart has always been larger than life, a woman fueled by big dreams and driven by memories of a painful past. She thinks she can overcome anything until her best friend, Kate Ryan, dies. Tully tries to fulfill her deathbed promise to Kate — to be there for Kate’s children — but Tully knows nothing about family, motherhood, or caring for people in general.

Sixteen-year-old Marah Ryan is devastated by her mother’s death. Her father, Johnny, strives to hold the family together, but even with his best efforts, Marah becomes unreachable in her grief. Nothing and no one seems to matter to her — until she falls in love with a young man who makes her smile again and leads her into his dangerous, shadowy world.

Dorothy Hart — the woman who once called herself Cloud — is at the center of Tully’s tragic past. She repeatedly abandoned her daughter, but now she comes back, drawn to her daughter’s side at a time when Tully is most alone. A single, tragic choice and a middle-of-the-night phone call will bring these women together and set them on a poignant, powerful journey of redemption.

Fly Away reminds us that where there is life, there is hope, and where there is love, there is forgiveness.

ELIZABETH STROUT

The Burgess Boys

Haunted by the freak accident that killed their father when they were children, Jim and Bob Burgess escaped from their Maine hometown of Shirley Falls for New York City as soon as they possibly could.

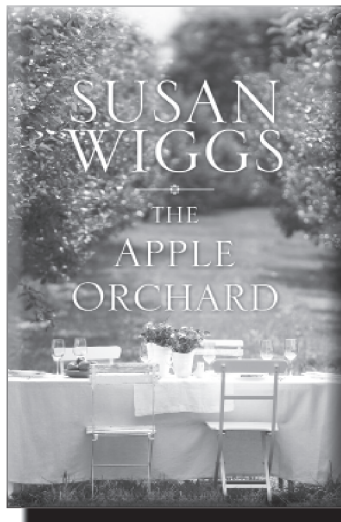

Jim, a sleek, successful corporate lawyer, has belittled his bighearted brother their whole lives — and Bob, a Legal Aid attorney who idolizes Jim, has always taken it in stride. But their long-standing dynamic is upended when their sister, Susan, the Burgess sibling who stayed behind, urgently calls them home.

Her lonely teenage son, Zach, has gotten himself into a world of trouble, and Susan desperately needs their help. And so the Burgess brothers return to the landscape of their childhood, where the long-buried tensions that have shaped and shadowed their relationship begin to surface in unexpected ways that will change them forever.

With a rare combination of brilliant storytelling, exquisite prose, and remarkable insight into character, Elizabeth Strout has brought to life two deeply human protagonists whose struggles and triumphs will resonate with readers long after they turn the final page.

The Apple Orchard

SIMULTANEOUS

Tess Delaney makes her living restoring stolen treasures to their rightful owners. People like Annelise Winther, who refuses to sell her long-gone mother's beloved necklace — despite Tess's advice. To Annelise, the jewel's value is in its memories.

Tess's own history, however, is filled with gaps. She has a father she's never met, and a mother who spent more time traveling than with her daughter. So Tess is shocked when she discovers the grandfather she never knew is in a coma — and that she has been named in his will. Tess has inherited half of Bella Vista, a hundred-acre apple orchard in the magical Sonoma town called Archangel. The other half was inherited by a woman named Isabel Johansen, the half-sister Tess has never heard of.

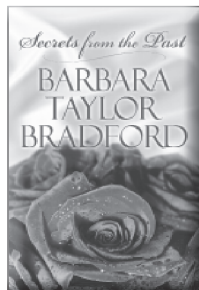

Against the rich landscape of Bella Vista, Tess begins to discover a world filled with the simple pleasures of food and family, of the warm earth beneath her bare feet. A world where family comes first and the roots of history run deep.

A blockbuster bestselling author, Susan Wiggs plumbs the deepest corners of the human heart as she explores the bonds of family, and the perils and rewards of love.

CATHERINE ANDERSON
Perfect Timing

A Harrigan Family Novel

"A major voice in the romance genre." — Publishers Weekly

Tragedy has struck the Harrigans. Quincy Harrigan's beloved sister-in-law, Loni, is gravely ill. Quincy feels helpless to save her, and the clock is ticking. Then, with perfect timing, Ceara O'Ceallaigh, a winsome red-haired woman, mysteriously appears on Quincy's property and insists that Loni can be cured. Furthermore, only Quincy, the sole remaining Harrigan bachelor, can make it happen — by marrying Ceara.

To Quincy, Ceara is a charming and quite likely deranged spinner of dreams who can't prove she's telling the truth. But how can he pass up any attempt to restore Loni to health?

Against all better judgment, he decides to go ahead with the marriage regardless how ridiculous it seems. Is Quincy making the worst mistake of his life? Or is he opening himself up to possibilities that defy explanation, and that could send him on a miraculous journey toward love?

Breaking Point

A Joe Pickett Novel

"You'll definitely want the latest Pickett title."

— Library Journal

Game Warden Joe Pickett had no idea that Lyle Pendergast was about to disappear. When they spoke the other day, Lyle said he was heading into the mountains to hunt, but instead he was running. Two EPA employees had just been murdered, and all signs pointed to him as the killer.

As the manhunt organized itself, Joe heard the story about land Lyle and his wife bought to build their retirement home on, until the EPA declared it a wetland. Joe also heard about the penalties charged on Lyle when he balked — until the family was torn apart by debt. Had Lyle finally cracked?

Joe decides to launch his own investigation but he soon finds himself in the middle of a war he never expected and never wanted. Powerful forces want Lyle not just caught, but dead — and the same goes for anyone who stands in their way.

Night Moves

A Doc Ford Novel

While trying to solve one of Florida's most profound secrets — the disappearance of five Navy planes on a training mission off the Florida coast during WWII — Doc Ford is the target of a murder attempt by someone who wants to make it look like an accident. Or is the target actually Doc's buddy, Tomlinson? Both men can think of a reason or two that certain people might want them dead.

Whatever the answer, Dinkin's Bay on Sanibel Island has become increasingly populated with suspicious out-of-towners. Any of them could prove to be dangerous companions for Ford and Tomlinson. They'll have to work fast to uncover their would-be killer — before he finishes the job.

When the Tarpon Bay Marina closed, fishing guide Randy Wayne White decided to write a book. Sanibel Flats, featuring marine biologist Doc Ford, was named one of the 100 favorite mysteries of the 20th century — and catapulted White's mysteries to national bestseller lists.

From the author of The Book of Lost Fragrances comes a haunting novel about a grieving woman who discovers the lost journal of novelist Victor Hugo, awakening a mystery that spans centuries.

In 1843, Victor Hugo's beloved nineteen-year-old daughter drowned. Ten years later, Hugo began participating in hundreds of séances to reestablish contact with her. He claimed to have communed with Plato, Galileo, Shakespeare, Dante, Jesus — and even the Devil himself.

Hugo's transcriptions of these conversations have all been published . . . or so it was believed.

Mythologist Jac L'Etoile arrives on the Isle of Jersey, where Hugo conducted the séances. Theo Gaspard, the man who has invited Jac there, wants Jac to help him discover Hugo's lost conversations with someone called the Shadow of the Sepulcher.

LINDA BARNES

The Perfect Ghost

"A captivating story of love, rivalry, and revenge."

— Publishers Weekly

"An outstanding effort from Barnes." — Booklist

Fearful and shy to the point of agoraphobic, Em Moore is the other half of the successful writing team, T. E. Blakemore. Her partner, Teddy Blake, does the interviewing and the negotiating. Teddy is also Em's bridge to the world and the main source of love in her life. When Teddy dies in a car accident, Em is devastated, and alone in a world she doesn't understand. The only way she can honor his memory and cope with his loss is to finish their current project — an "autobiography" of the reclusive film director Garrett Malcolm.

Ensnared in a small cottage near Malcolm's Cape Cod home, Em builds the courage to interview Malcolm. She finds the director friendlier, more intimidating, and far sexier than she had imagined. She also senses trouble between Malcolm and one of his former stars. When the police begin looking into Teddy's accident, Em's control on her life — tenuous at best — is threatened.

JAMAICA KINCAID

See Now Then

"Ms. Kincaid writes with passion and conviction, and she also writes with a musical sense of language, a poet's understanding of how politics and history, private and public events, overlap and blur." — New York Times

In See Now Then, Jamaica Kincaid's first novel in ten years, a marriage is revealed in all its joys and agonies. This piercing examination of the ways in which the passing of time operates on the human consciousness unfolds gracefully, and Kincaid inhabits each of her characters, a mother and father and their two children living in a small village in New England, as they move between the present, the past, and the future.

Kincaid's characters, constrained by the world, despair in their domestic situations. But their minds wander, trying to make linear sense of what is, in fact, nonlinear. See Now Then is Kincaid's attempt to make clear what is unclear, and to make unclear what we assumed was clear: that is, the beginning, the middle, and the end.

An all-expense paid week at a luxury villa in Jamaica — it's the invitation of a lifetime for a group of old college friends. All four women are desperate not just for a reunion, but for an escape: Tina is drowning under the demands of mothering four young children. Allie is shattered by the news that a genetic illness runs in her family. Savannah is carrying the secret of her husband's infidelity. And finally, there's Pauline, who spares no expense to throw her wealthy husband an unforgettable thirty-fifth birthday celebration, hoping it will gloss over the cracks already splitting apart their new marriage.

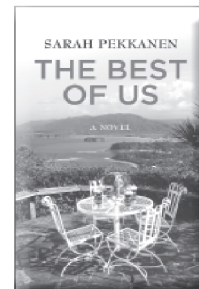

Hours on a private beach, gourmet dinners, and late nights of drinking kick off an idyllic week for the women and their husbands. But as a hurricane bears down on the island, turmoil swirls inside the villa, forcing each of the women to re-evaluate what she knows about her friends — and herself.

KENT HARUF

Benediction

"[Benediction] is set in fictional Holt County and delves, in spare, simple prose that many have compared to Ernest Hemingway's, into the inevitably entwined lives of its rural inhabitants."

— Publishers Weekly

When Dad Lewis is diagnosed with terminal cancer, he and his wife work together to make his final days comfortable. Their daughter, Lorraine, comes home from Denver to help look after Dad, which helps to soften the bitter absence of the Lewis's estranged son, Frank.

Next door, young Alice lives with her grandmother, and Dad's condition stirs painful memories of her own mother's death. Meanwhile, the town's preacher attempts to mend his relationships with his wife and son, and an elderly widow and her middle-aged daughter do everything they can to ease the pain their friends and neighbors are suffering.

Bracing, sad and deeply illuminating, Benediction captures the fullness of life by representing every stage of it — including its extinction — as well as the hopes and dreams that sustain us along the way.

Cats & Daughters

They Don't Always Come When Called

"[Brown] writes eloquently about the bonds that exist between women of all ages." — Kirkus Reviews

"Some say your previous cat chooses your new feline. If so, what in cat heaven's name was our beloved Cleo thinking when she sent us a crazy cat like Jonah?"

Jonah entered Helen Brown's life not long after she was diagnosed with breast cancer and had begun recovery from a mastectomy. His arrival coincided with the finalization of her previous book, Cleo, as well as preparations for the wedding of her son and struggles with her daughter's determination to embark on a spiritual journey. Jonah, as it happened, was just as headstrong as Helen's daughter.

In Cats & Daughters, Helen Brown writes with honesty and humor about family life. As Helen writes in her dedication, this book is "to cats and daughters who don't always come when called."

A Bloom in Winter Summerset Abbey

Rowena and Victoria Buxton and Prudence Tate were raised together as sisters, though Pru is the daughter of the Buxton's governess. As a result, she never really belonged in either world — downstairs with the household staff, or upstairs with the Buxton daughters.

After Pru's desperate marriage and move to London, Rowena and Victoria fear they have lost their beloved friend forever. Guilt-ridden and remorseful, Rowena seeks comfort from a daring flyboy and embraces the most dangerous activity the world has ever seen. Victoria defies her family and her illness to make her own dream of becoming a botanist come true, despite the fact that this role is deemed most unladylike.

As England and the world step closer to conflict, the two young women flout their family, their upbringing, and their heritage to seize a modern future of their own making.

CHARLES MARTIN

Unwritten

An actress running from her past finds escape with a man hiding from his future.

When someone wants to be lost, a home tucked among the Ten Thousand Islands off the Florida coast is a good place to live. A man can get by without ever having to talk to another soul. It's a nice enough existence, until the one person who ties him to the world of the living, the reason he's still among them, even if only on the fringes, asks him for help.

Father Steady Capri knows quite a bit about helping others but he is afraid Katie Quinn's problems may be beyond his abilities. Katie is a world-famous actress with an all-too-familiar story of fame and self-destruction. He knows the true cause of her desire to end her life is buried too deeply for him to reach.

Katie still must confront her past before she can find peace. Ultimately, Steady will need to leave his secluded home and sacrifice the serenity he's found to help her. They discover the unwritten story of both their pasts and their future.

A Whispering Wind Novel

Heather Reed thought she was making the right choice when she decided to raise her daughter, Angel, on her own. But three years later, Heather realizes she needs help. Her career as an actress is faltering and Angel is more than she can handle alone. It's time to track down Angel's father. The only problem? Todd Winston doesn't even know that Angel exists.

Heather's search leads her to Whispering Winds, Wyoming. If Todd Winston is dismayed to see his old girlfriend show up in town, he's horrified when he looks into the angelic eyes of the little girl who is clearly his daughter.

Though there's no question at all of Angel's paternity, Todd flatly refuses to open his life to Angel — and Heather flatly refuses to leave town until she finds out why. Neither counts, though, on their unexpected desire to become a family. The only question is — is it too late?

KRISTAN HIGGINS

The Best Man

"Another sweet, touching must-read for Higgins fans and anyone who enjoys a perfect combination of humor and romance." — Kirkus Reviews, starred Sometimes the best man is the one you least expect.

There's also some great scenery at the winery — including Levi Cooper, the local police chief, who just happens to be the best friend of her former fiancé. There's a lot about Levi that Faith never noticed. The only catch is that she's can't quite forget that he helped ruin her wedding all those years ago.

If she can find a minute in all her family drama to stop and smell the rosé, she just might find a reason to stay at Blue Heron, and finish that walk down the aisle.

Heart Like Mine

"A palpable love story, emotional search for and acceptance of a lost parent, and a bittersweet ending make for an enveloping, heartfelt read." — Publishers Weekly

Thirty-six-year-old Grace McAllister never longed for children. But when she meets Victor Hansen, a handsome, charismatic divorced restaurateur who is father to Max and Ava, Grace decides that, for the right man, she could learn to be an excellent part-time stepmom. After all, the kids live with their mother, Kelli. How hard could it be?

At thirteen, Ava Hansen is mature beyond her years. Since her parents' divorce, she has been taking care of her emotionally unstable mother and her little brother. While her father's new girlfriend is nice enough, Ava still holds out hope that her parents will get back together and that they'll be a family again.

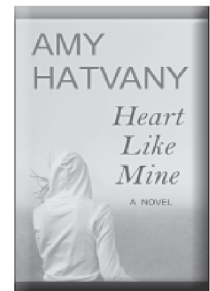

Just days after Victor and Grace get engaged, Kelli dies suddenly under mysterious circumstances — and Grace and Ava discover that there was much more to Kelli's life than either of them ever realized.

A Time of Change

When Tom Stuart, the owner of a New Mexico trading post dies, his will surprises everyone. He's left his business to employee Josephine Buck, a young Navajo woman who thought of Tom as a surrogate father.

Ben Stuart and his dad had had problems, but military service changed Ben for the better and put the two men back in each other's lives. His father's sudden death ends any possibility of a true reconciliation and leaves Ben fuming at being disinherited. Suspecting that Jo had an affair with his father, Ben is determined to get control of the trading post.

Because of her bataalii training, Jo understands that Ben is wounded in both body and soul, and she's determined to help him. As Jo and Ben move toward a deeper understanding of each other, they learn that the trading post at the center of their lives holds many secrets — and one in particular that shocks them to the core.

A Bat in the Belfry A Home Repair is Homicide Mystery

It is nearly midnight when the enormous bell in the belfry of All Faith Chapel — silent for decades — peals, startling awake the entire town of Eastport. Upon inspection of the steeple, the police uncover the body of local teenager Karen Hansen, who had climbed the belfry's dark, rickety stairs for a midnight rendezvous. But instead of an exciting new life, Karen met her death.

Meanwhile, as an epic nor'easter bears down on the idyllic island town, Jacobia "Jake" Tiptree hurries to shore up her ramshackle old house against the big blow. An amateur detective, she has sworn off chasing criminals. But when the news of Karen's murder spreads and much of the evidence points to Jake's likable houseguest, she and her sleuthing partner, Ellie White, get to work.

They discover an unexpected ally in newcomer Lizzie Snow, a woman "from away" who seemed to have blown into town with the nor'easter — and who also seems to know a lot about the mind of a killer. Can Jake and Ellie trust her?

Sweet Mercy

When Eve Marryat's father is laid off from the Ford Motor Company in 1931, he is forced to support his family by leaving St. Paul, Minnesota, and moving back to his Ohio roots. Eve's uncle Cyrus has invited the family to live and work at his Marryat Island Ballroom and Lodge.

St. Paul seemed like a haven for gangsters, and Eve had grown fearful of living there. At seventeen, she considers her family to be "good people." Many of the people in her old neighborhood were lawbreakers and criminals, so Eve is thrilled to be moving to a "safe haven." She's blissfully unaware that her uncle's lodge is a transfer station for illegal liquor smuggled from Canada.

Eve settles in to work and makes new friends, including an enigmatic but affecting young man. When the reality of the situation around her becomes clear, Eve is faced with a dilemma. Can she ignore what is happening right under her very nose? Or does she risk everything by condemning the man whose love and generosity is keeping her family from ruin?

SANDRA BYRD
Roses Have Thorns

A Novel of Elizabeth I

From the acclaimed author of To Die For and The Secret Keeper, both named Best Books of the Year by Library Journal, comes a stirring novel that sheds new light on Elizabeth I and her court.

Like Philippa Gregory, Sandra Byrd has attracted countless fans for evoking the complexity, grandeur, and brutality of the Tudor period. In her latest tour de force, she poses the question: What happens when serving a queen may cost you your marriage — or your life?

In 1565, seventeen-year-old Elin von Snakenborg leaves Sweden on a treacherous journey to England. Her fiancé has fallen in love with her sister and her dowry money has been gambled away, but ahead of her lies an adventure that will take her to the dizzying heights of Tudor power. Elin is forced to choose between her unyielding monarch and the husband she's not sure she can trust — a choice that will provoke catastrophic consequences.

Roses Have Thorns is a brilliant exploration of treason, both to the realm and to the heart.

Bandit's Trail

Don Sebastian Valdivia and his secretary, Juan Carreño, attend a horse auction at the Garrison Ranch, where an outlaw stallion, Twilight, is held back until last. The only man who can ride this magnificent beast is Charles Dupont, known as The Crisco Kid, who has bonded with the horse since he was a colt.

Because gunman Bud Carew despises The Kid, he desperately wants to possess Twilight. Those attending the auction know that no matter which one wins Twilight, a gunfight is sure to follow. Just as it appears that Carew has won, Valdivia places his bid for $800. He is not bidding for a horse, but for a man.

In a calculated move, Valdivia plays The Kid against Carew, and The Kid proves to be the better man. Valdivia offers Twilight to The Kid with two options — keep Twilight and remain in the Southwest or accept employment with the don and accompany him back to his grand rancho in the Argentine.

LAURAN PAINE
Guns in Wyoming

The cattlemen believed in free graze for their herds and that meant that others, like the sheep ranchers, must be forced to leave the territory. When the sheep ranchers refused, night riders shot and killed a sheep rancher and a shepherd, as proof that the edict to leave was serious.

Uriah Gorman — an old Confederate soldier — refused to be intimidated. With a goal of justice for the sheep ranchers, Gorman becomes their leader. Gorman strikes with his band, invading the ranch of one of the leaders of the cattlemen and executing him in front of his family. As far as Gorman is concerned, it is now justice or all-out war.

Unlike his elder brother Zeke, Lee Gorman doesn't want to follow his father blindly into more killing. He tries to escape from the area but is captured and taken to jail. Gorman's reaction is to free his son from jail, take a cattleman and his son as hostages, and confront the commanding officer of the cavalry detachment with an ultimatum.

Gunfire Men A Western Trio

In the first short story, "Last Stand Mesa," from the San Saba to Dodge City, and many places in between, there were men who remembered Mike McLean — too many of them. That's why his long dodge is finally over — and why he now has to make his last stand.

"Powdersmoke Empire" sees a wild town — a hangout for gunmen, thieves, and outlaws — under the protection of Big Mac. And the ramrod of the mob was Bain Foyle, Big Mac's Number One Man. Honesty was a dangerous luxury here, but for Bain Foyle it would become a priceless necessity.

"The Mustang Trail" features Rogue Bishop, who looks exactly like what he is — a sharp-edged, tougher than nails, gun-slinging gambler. Usually he sticks to poker and bets straight on his own nerve. But this time he's playing on luck — to catch a horse thief. It's his biggest gamble ever — a cutthroat game right down to the last chip.

"A brone-busting oater with colorful characters, vivid scenery and snappy dialogue." — Publishers Weekly

"A quick and exciting read." — Roundup Magazine

Burn English believes in two things: the freedom of the open range and that a mustang he can tame is his to sell. He doesn't make much money, but with nerves of tempered steel and a fair bit of luck, he gets by.

Gordon Meiklejon, part of a prominent British family, was endowed with money to invest, provided he settled and went into business somewhere that wasn't under the British flag. He chose to buy the L Slash Ranch in New Mexico to build his cattle empire. Folks don't mind having a foreigner with new ideas for improving the breeding lines of the cattle for a neighbor — until he starts sectioning off his land with barbed wire.

Throw in a wayward rustler looking to take advantage of the simmering tension, and next thing you know a range war is ready to blow. Now English has more to worry about than just fencing — his very life is at stake!

The Pillagers

Craig Morgan has been sidetracked somehow into acting as an official investigator of a Minnesota Indian problem. Chief Bog-o-nay-ge-shig, of the Chippewa, has complained to Washington that his people are being cheated out of their timberland, and that, in fact, there is a conspiracy against the Indians to systematically destroy them. Morgan, a known Indian rights advocate and a professional timberman, is the perfect man to evaluate Chief Bog's charges.

But even as Morgan arrives to investigate, the scene is rapidly changing — for the worse. The ruthlessness of the local pine baron, compounded by a self-serving Indian agent and a racist U.S. marshal, has brought matters to a head. Chief Bog's tribe is arming itself for a last desperate confrontation, and Morgan, as the last official Washington agent, is right in the middle of it. The conflict is inevitable, and all Morgan can hope for is that the tragedy to come won't destroy them all.

The Clocks

A Hercule Poirot Mystery

"Here is the grand-manner detective story in all its glory."
— New York Times

"Superlative Christie . . . extremely ingenious."
— The Bookman

"A sure-fire attention-gripper."
— Saturday Review

As instructed, stenographer Sheila Webb let herself into the house at 19 Wilbraham Crescent. It was then that she made a grisly discovery: the body of a dead man sprawled across the living room floor.

What intrigued Poirot about the case was the time factor. Sheila recalled hearing a cuckoo clock strike three o'clock. Yet, the four other clocks in the living room all showed the time as 4:13.

The novel is notable for the fact that Poirot never visits any of the crime scenes or speaks to any of the witnesses or suspects. He is challenged to prove his oft-made boast that a crime can be solved by the exercise of the intellect alone.

"There is an engaging zest about Agatha Christie's latest novel." — The Observer

While playing golf, Bobby Jones and Dr. Thomas discover a dying man at the base of a cliff. Before he dies, the man manages to get out the words, "Why didn't they ask Evans?"

Days later, remembering things that don't seem to add up about the death, Bobby decides to investigate, and his friend Frances Derwent immediately agrees to help. Was it a misstep that sent a handsome stranger plummeting to his death over a cliff? Or was it something more sinister?

Now the two amateur sleuths are on a wild and perilous pursuit to discover who Evans is, what it was he wasn't asked, and why the mysterious inquiry has put their own lives in mortal danger . . .

AGATHA CHRISTIE

The Mysterious Mr. Quin

A Harley Quin Collection

"A rare treat for discriminating readers." — New York Times

It had been a typical New Year's Eve party, but as midnight approaches, Mr. Satterthwaite — a keen observer of human nature — senses that the real drama of the evening is about to unfold. He's proved right when a mysterious stranger knocks at the door.

Who is this Mr. Quin? He seems to appear and disappear almost like a trick of the light. In fact, the only consistent thing about him is that his presence is always an omen — sometimes for good, but sometimes deadly.

This volume contains the adventures of Mr. Satterthwaite, a wealthy, elderly bachelor whom life has passed by — and Mr. Harley Quin, a vaguely supernatural figure whose appearances in Satterthwaite's life always spell adventure.

In her autobiography, Agatha Christie listed the Harley Quin stories as her favorites and describes Harley Quin as "a friend of lovers and connected with death."

AGATHA CHRISTIE

Third Girl

A Hercule Poirot Mystery

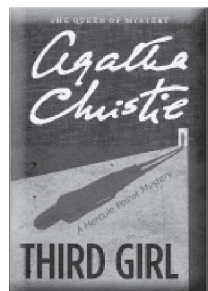

"Should be enough to send you scurrying to a bookstore. [A] beautifully set trap for the reader, into which I plunged headlong. Christie displays her usual acute sense of the immediate contemporary scene." — New York Times

"Dialogue and characters are lively as flies." — The Observer

From her tousled appearance to her perplexed stare, there was much about the young girl that struck Hercule Poirot as peculiar. But it was her vague confession to a possible murder she's not even sure she's committed that really threw the brainy Belgian detective for a loop. And now she's missing! Where might she be? No one knows — and no one seems to care.

A favorite recurring Christie character, novelist Ariadne Oliver, assists Poirot in this tale of impersonation, drugs, smuggling, forgery, blackmail, and a young girl who can't remember committing a murder.

The novel is one of the few of Christie's later works in which Poirot is more or less present from beginning to end.
