TJ KLUNE The House in the Cerulean Sea Cerulean Chronicles

New York Times bestseller

"Quirk and charm give way to a serious exploration of the dangers of complacency in this delightful, thought-provoking Orwellian fantasy from Klune...." — Publishers Weekly, starred

A magical island. A dangerous task. A burning secret.

Linus Baker leads a quiet, solitary life. At forty, he lives in a tiny house with a devious cat and his old records. As a Caseworker at the Department in Charge of Magical Youth, he spends his days overseeing the well-being of children in government-sanctioned orphanages.

When Linus is unexpectedly summoned by Extremely Upper Management he's given a curious and highly classified assignment: travel to Marsyas Island Orphanage, where six dangerous children reside: a gnome, a sprite, a wyvern, an unidentifiable green blob, a were-Pomeranian, and the Antichrist. Linus must set aside his fears and determine whether or not they're likely to bring about the end of days.

But the children aren't the only secret the island keeps. Their caretaker is the charming and enigmatic Arthur Parnassus, who will do anything to keep his wards safe. As Arthur and Linus grow closer, long-held secrets are exposed, and Linus must make a choice: destroy a home or watch the world burn.

TJ KLUNE Somewhere Beyond the Sea

Cerulean Chronicles

New York Times bestselling author

Arthur Parnassus lives a good life built on the ashes of a bad one. He's the headmaster of a strange orphanage on a distant and peculiar island, and he hopes to soon be the adoptive father to the six dangerous and magical children who live there.

Arthur works hard and loves with his whole heart so none of the children ever feel the neglect and pain that he once felt as an orphan on that very same island so long ago. He is not alone: joining him is the love of his life, Linus Baker, a former Caseworker at the Department in Charge of Magical Youth. And there's the island's sprite, Zoe Chapelwhite, and her girlfriend, Mayor Helen Webb. Together, they will do anything to protect the children.

But when Arthur is summoned to make a public statement about his dark past, he finds himself at the helm of a fight for the future that his family, and all magical people, deserve.

And when a new magical child hopes to join them on their island home — one who finds power in calling himself monster, a name that Arthur worked so hard to protect his children from — Arthur knows they're at a breaking point: their family will either grow stronger than ever or fall apart.

KRISTY WOODSON HARVEY A Happier Life

Present Day: Keaton Smith is desperate for a fresh start. So when her mother needs someone to put her childhood home in Beaufort, North Carolina, on the market — the home that Keaton didn't know existed until now — she jumps at the chance to head south. But the moment she steps foot inside the abandoned house, she's confronted with secrets about grandparents who died in a car accident before she was born. And as she gets to know her charming next-door neighbor, his precocious ten-year-old son, and a flock of endearingly feisty town busybodies, she soon finds she has more questions than answers.

1976: After meeting her adoring husband Townsend, Rebecca "Becks" Saint James abandoned the life she knew and never looked back. Forty years later, she's made a name for herself hosting annual summer suppers that have become the stuff of legend, with locals and out-of-towners alike clamoring for an invitation to her stunning historic home. But she's struggling behind the façade. Becks strives to make the lives of those around her as easy as possible, but this summer she is facing a dilemma that even she can't solve. And as the end of the season looms, she is brought to a decision she never wanted to make.

As both Keaton and Becks face new challenges and chapters, they are connected through time by the house on Sunset Lane, which has protected the secrets, hopes, and dreams of the women in their family for generations.

CAROLYN BROWN The Sawmill Book Club

Unsure of the future but ready for risks, Libby O'Dell trades big-city life for whatever the back roads hold. In this case it's the small community of Sawmill, Texas, where Libby's taken a temporary job putting an antique store in order. Her new boss, Benny Taylor, a handsome charmer with a three-legged dog named Elvis, isn't a bad change of scenery, either.

Across the street Benny's surrogate grandmothers — the widows Minilee and Opal — are ready with homemade corn bread, sweet tea, and an invitation for Libby to join their book club. Even if it is mostly a gathering for local gossip and meddling. The ladies' main agenda: find Benny a wife. Except Benny's not looking, and Libby's only passing through until she decides what direction she's headed next.

Truth is, Sawmill is starting to feel pretty nice. Benny, even nicer. Time will tell if this meantime job in a stopover town is just what Libby's been looking for — and where she belongs.

RHYS BOWEN

The Rose Arbor

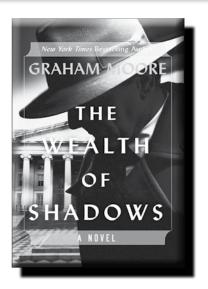

London, 1968. Liz Houghton is languishing as an obituary writer at a London newspaper when a young girl's disappearance captivates the city. If Liz can break the story, it's her way into the newsroom. She already has a scoop: her best friend, Marisa, is a police officer assigned to the case.

Liz follows Marisa to Dorset, where they make another disturbing discovery. Over two decades earlier, three girls disappeared while evacuating from London. One was found murdered in the woods near a train line. The other two were never seen again.

As Liz digs deeper, she finds herself drawn to the village of Tydeham, which was requisitioned by the military during the war and left in ruins. After all these years, what could possibly link the missing girls to this abandoned village? And why does a place Liz has never seen before seem so strangely familiar?

GRAHAM MOORE The Wealth of Shadows

1939. Ansel Luxford has everything a person could want — a comfortable career, a brilliant spouse, a beautiful new baby. But he is obsessed by a belief that Europe is on the precipice of a war that will grow to consume the world. The United States is officially proclaiming neutrality in any foreign conflict, but when Ansel is offered an opportunity to move to Washington, D.C., to join a clandestine project within the Treasury Department that is working to undermine Nazi Germany, he uproots his family overnight and takes on the challenge of a lifetime.

How can they defeat the enemy without firing a bullet?

To thwart the Nazis, Ansel and his team invent a powerful new theater of battle: economic warfare. Money is a dangerous weapon, and Ansel's efforts will plunge him into a world full of peril and deceit. He will crisscross the globe to broker backroom deals, undertake daring heists, and spar with titans of industry like J.P. Morgan and the century's greatest economic mind, Britain's John Maynard Keynes. When Ansel's wife takes a job with the FBI to hunt for spies within the government, the need for subterfuge extends to the home front. And Ansel discovers that he might be closer to those spies than he could ever imagine.

The League of Gentlewomen Witches Dangerous Damsels

Miss Charlotte Pettifer belongs to a secret league of women skilled in the subtle arts. That is to say — although it must never be said — witchcraft. The League of Gentlewomen Witches strives to improve the world in small ways. Using magic, they tidy, correct, and manipulate according to their notions of what is proper, entirely unlike those reprobates in the Wisteria Society.

When the long lost amulet of Black Beryl is discovered, it is up to Charlotte, as the future leader of the League, to make sure the powerful talisman does not fall into the wrong hands. Therefore, it is most unfortunate when she crosses paths with Alex O'Riley, a pirate who is no Mr. Darcy. With all the world scrambling after the amulet, Alex and Charlotte join forces to steal it together. If only they could keep their pickpocketing hands to themselves! If Alex is not careful, he might just steal something else — such as Charlotte's heart.

JACKIE LAU Love, Lies, and Cherry Pie

"Heartfelt and hilarious ... Lau brings the goods." — Publishers Weekly, starred

Mark Chan this, Mark Chan that. Writer and barista Emily Hung is tired of hearing about the great Mark Chan, the son of her parents' friends. You'd think he single-handedly stopped climate change and ended child poverty from the way her mother raves about him. But in reality, he's just a boring, sweater-vestwearing engineer, and when they're forced together at Emily's sister's wedding, it's obvious he thinks he's too good for her.

But now that Emily is her family's last single daughter, her mother is fixated on getting her married and she has her sights on Mark. There's only one solution, clearly: convince Mark to be in a fake relationship with her long enough to put an end to her mom's meddling. He reluctantly agrees.

Unfortunately, lying isn't enough. Family friends keep popping up at their supposed dates — including a bubble tea shop and cake-decorating class — so they'll have to spend more time together to make their relationship look real. With each fake date, though, Emily realizes that Mark's not quite what she assumed and maybe that argyle sweater isn't so ugly after all . . .

Love at First Book

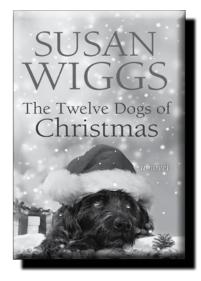

Emily Allen, a librarian on Martha's Vineyard, has always dreamed of a life of travel and adventure. So when her favorite author, Siobhan Riordan, offers her a job in Ireland, Emily jumps at the opportunity. After all, Siobhan's novels got Em through some of the darkest days of her existence.

Helping Siobhan write the final book in her acclaimed series — after a ten-year hiatus due to a scorching case of writer's block — is a dream come true for Emily. If only she didn't have to deal with Siobhan's son, Kieran Murphy. He manages Siobhan's bookstore, and the grouchy bookworm clearly doesn't want Em around.

Emily persists, and spending her days bantering with the annoyingly handsome mercurial Irishman only makes her fall more deeply in love with the new life she's built — and with the man who seems to soften toward her with every quip she throws at him. But when she discovers the reason for Kieran's initial resistance, Em finds herself torn between helping Siobhan find closure with her series and her now undeniable feelings for Kier. As Siobhan's novel progresses, Emily will have to decide if she's truly ready to turn a new page and figure out what lies in the next chapter.

The Twelve Dogs of Christmas

Brenda Malloy wants nothing to do with Christmas ever again. Last year, Brenda and her husband rushed their beloved dog Tim to the emergency vet on Christmas Eve. The good news: Tim survived after the vet cleared the obstruction — a pair of women's lace undies. The bad news: the undies were not Brenda's.

A year after the breakup, Brenda has put her life back together. She's trained for a marathon, is writing a children's novel, and she's found purpose and healing as a volunteer with a dog rescue organization in Houston, Texas. The rescue partners with a program in Avalon, New York — a small, snowy town deep in the Catskills. Now Brenda is arranging the transport of rescued dogs from Houston to Avalon — just in time for a merry Christmas with their forever families. Brenda's friends worry about her driving a van two thousand miles with twelve dogs in crates, but she shrugs off their concern. How hard can it be? She knows the way, and she's just looking to escape the Christmas overload for a while.

But a blinding snowstorm, an escaped mutt, and a life-saving encounter with Adam Bellamy — a single dad and paramedic — means Brenda has to stay in Avalon longer than she planned. As she drops off each precious pup at their new homes, some of the comfort and joy of the season begins to creep up on Brenda despite her determination to avoid the holidays. Perhaps you can bring Christmas into your heart after all . . . if you have the right furry friends to guide the way.

MARC CAMERON Bad River

An Arliss Cutter Novel

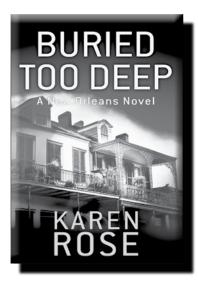

In the Inupiaq village of Wainwright on the Arctic Ocean, two teenagers discover a frozen body in the permafrost wall of their family's cellar. They recognize the face through the ice. It is the face of a young woman who went missing — two years ago . . .

In South Dakota, Arliss Cutter searches for answers surrounding his brother's mysterious death. But his visit only raises more questions without any leads. Until he returns to Alaska — and learns that his brother had something in common with the frozen body in the ice cellar . . .

Inside the young woman's pocket is a fossilized animal tooth — similar to the one Arliss's brother picked up on a trip to South Dakota. A bizarre coincidence? Or are the two connected somehow? Before Arliss can figure it out, his brother's widow and children become the targets of a brutal home invasion. Arliss arrives on the scene in time to save them — but his actions trigger a larger investigation that puts his own neck on the line. From South Dakota to Anchorage to the Inupiaq villages of the Arctic, Arliss follows this bloodstained trail of clues to a remote lodge on the banks of the Kobuk River. Here, in this unforgiving wilderness, he will find the answers he seeks. Here, in this untamed, often violent land, he will come face to face with the terrible truth — and the man behind his brother's murder . . .

VINCE FLYNN Capture or Kill A Mitch Rapp Novel by Don Bentley

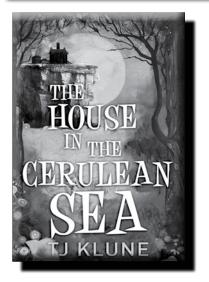

RELEASE

April 2011: On a remote mountaintop overlooking the remains of the Iranian nuclear weapons program, Azad Ashani witnesses a Quds Force demonstration of a capability meant to upend America's war in the Middle East. Ashani, director of the Iranian Ministry of Intelligence and Security and Irene Kennedy's former back channel to the Iranian government, recognizes the demonstration's true significance, and the nation-ending conflict it will provoke. Alone, Ashani stands no chance of preventing this rush to madness. But with the help of one man, he just might.

In Washington, DC, CIA director Irene Kennedy briefs the president that the operational window to kill or capture Osama bin Laden at his recently discovered compound in Abbottabad, Pakistan, is rapidly closing. But before he'll authorize a commando raid on Pakistani soil, the president demands irrefutable proof of bin Laden's presence. Proof he trusts just one man to provide.

Preventing a looming war in the Middle East while delivering justice for the nearly 3,000 Americans killed on 9/11 would be a big ask for anyone. But Mitch Rapp isn't just anyone.

LAUREN LAYNE Miranda in Retrograde

As the youngest physics professor at her university, practical-minded Miranda Reed plans her life with minute precision. But that's before she's denied tenure and the promotion she thought was guaranteed. Suddenly, her tidy life is anything but constant.

Overdue for a sabbatical, Miranda takes some time to look towards the stars — only this time, she's not looking for black holes. With her faith in science shaken, Miranda turns to a practice she's long dismissed as preposterous: astrology. Determined to figure out why her life has suddenly gone sideways, Miranda commits to a year of letting her horoscope guide her. Soon she's taking on new home improvement projects, adopting a new pet, and studying what the stars have to say about her ideal love match. The intriguingly aloof artist living next door? Never. His Aries energy is all wrong. On the other hand, the charming father of her new tutoring pupil is Sagittarian perfection. Made for her . . . right?

As Miranda navigates life with new a perspective, she slowly discovers neither science nor the stars have all the answers. And that, when it comes to love, you sometimes just have to trust your heart.

JULIA LONDON

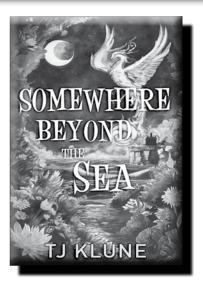

Nice Work, Nora November

Now that Nora is not dead, only one question remains: What does she want to do with her life?

Nora November is alive — but she wasn't always. She was once clinically dead, having spent several minutes under water after a terrible surfing accident she doesn't remember. What she does remember from her time in a coma is her grandfather, who passed away over a year ago. And a beautiful garden. And the most delicious tomato she ever tasted.

Now that she's awake again her life has been cleaved in two. In the Before, Nora lived like a ghost, drowning under the weight of her parents' expectations. In the After, she's determined to accomplish the things she left undone before she died. Her reverse bucket list is simple: She wants to learn to cook and to be a better older sister to Lacey. She wants to quit her terrible job as a personal injury lawyer at her dad's firm. She wants to bring Grandpa's now-neglected garden back to life. And she wants to find the guy she met in a corner store months ago — the one she never called but never stopped thinking about. As Nora's attempts at a new life prove disastrous at best, her mission to fulfill her reverse bucket list leads her to a reckoning with the truth she almost hid from herself.

MARINA GIBSON

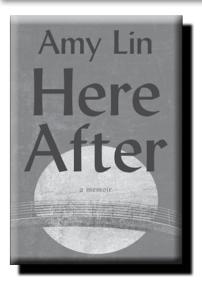

Cast, Catch, Release Finding Serenity and Purpose through Fly Fishing

As her twenty-first birthday approached, Marina Gibson received a unique gift suggestion from her parents, who offered her a choice between fishing rods or jewelry. In an unconventional decision, she opted for fishing rods. Her intention was to rekindle a childhood passion and carry on a family tradition initiated by her mother, who had dedicated years to pursuing salmon in the rivers of the Scottish Highlands.

As fishing overtook Marina's life and evolved into a full-time career, she became enraptured by the silent mysteries of the river and the quiet magic of angling. The complexity of fly fishing and the rituals of casting provided her refuge from a failing marriage, giving her a reliable source of comfort that benefited both her mind and soul. It also revealed the barriers that exist for women trying to make it in a tradition-bound and male-dominated world.

Tracing the epic, migratory journey of the Atlantic salmon alongside the ups and downs of her personal story, Cast, Catch, Release brings to life the joys of fishing, the spirited quest of the angler, and how these two paths meet on lakes and riverbanks around the world. A love letter to this exhilarating yet serene sport, Gibson shows what it means to find peace and purpose amidst the majesty of the great outdoors.

AMY LIN Here After

"As the author navigates the wake of her inexplicable loss, readers will be both humbled by and grateful for the way she brings us into her world. A beautifully visceral and emotionally intimate depiction of young widowhood." — Kirkus Reviews, starred

"Lin's memoir dazzles. Each chapter breathes with urgency... The tension between immediacy and memory lends the book an etherealness despite its raw, human vulnerability... written in poetic, fragmented chapters that convey how deeply people want to find words for what's wordless, to discover meaning in the meaningless." — Library Journal, starred

Amy Lin never expected to find a love like the one she shares with her husband, Kurtis, a gifted young architect who pulls her toward joy, adventure, and greater self-acceptance. On a sweltering August morning, only a few months shy of the newlyweds' move to Vancouver, thirty-two-year-old Kurtis heads out to run a half-marathon. It's the last time she sees her husband alive.

What follows is a rich and unflinchingly honest portrayal of her life with Kurtis, the vortex created by his death, and the ongoing struggle Amy faces as she attempts to understand her own experience in the context of commonly held "truths" about what the grieving process looks like.

MARILYN MOSS ROCKEFELLER Mountain Girl From Barefoot to Boardroom

From the mountains of West Virginia to the executive suite of a milliondollar company to marrying into America's most famous family, Marilyn Moss Rockefeller's life has been one long adventure. Rockefeller's childhood reads like a sad country song, but the heartbreak and pain only fueled her determination to grab the world by the harness and ride with her dynamic combination of guts, luck, charm, and intellect. Along the way, she appeared nude in an art film, crashed a plane and lived to tell about it, and co-founded the iconic Moss Tents.

Her memoir Mountain Girl is a moving recollection of a notorious and victorious life — one that shows how a little spitfire and a lot of soul can take a person from barefoot in Appalachia to the boardrooms of industry without losing that special something or selling out. In her own words, Rockefeller writes about a remarkable life that has been "well-lived, and a hoot to boot."

PETER GREGG

The Sugar Rush A Memoir of Wild Dreams, Budding Bromance, and Making Maple Syrup

Trying to shake off the emotions of a recently emptied nest and midlife anxiety, Peter Gregg launches into a strange new chapter — he decides to make maple syrup. A lot of it. After recruiting his best buddy, Bert, and collecting advice from a clique of salty farmers who've been sugaring all their lives, Gregg is soon consumed by what maple producers call "the Bug." He sets out to chase the mythical "five pounder" goal — a lofty syrup production total that'll put him in league with the pros in Vermont. For the next three months, from January to early April, the two men battle the rugged terrain of a mountain of maples in an Ahab-like quest that eats up their energy, time, and the contents of their wallets.

Along the way, they learn how to handle dangerous equipment, outrun predatory wildlife, and deal with the sped-up seasons brought on by climate change.

Out of their struggle, they get something more valuable than the liquid gold they're cooking: bonds of lasting friendship, a lifeline to a community, and a sense of purpose that remains long after sugaring season is over.

ALYSSA MAXWELL Murder at Vinland

A Gilded Newport Mystery

August 1901: A fundraiser for a new Rhode Island Audubon Society brings Emma to Vinland, the Viking-themed seaside home of her relative, Florence Vanderbilt Twombly, where the guest of honor is Edith Roosevelt, wife of Vice President

Theodore Roosevelt. Observing the ladies in attendance, Emma is struck by the contrast of the Viking warrior-inspired elements in the house and the admirable but admittedly genteel cause of bird protection. Vinland bears the name of the Vikings' first landfall in North America, but in this room today there is most assuredly no one to fear.

Emma's observation is proven wrong the following morning when one of Mrs. Twombly's houseguests becomes ill. Accompanying police detective Jesse Whyte, Emma discovers a box of petit fours supposedly sent by Mrs. Roosevelt. They promptly rule out the Second Lady as a suspect, but someone has poisoned the cakes.

Soon another box of desserts as well as letters tainted with ink containing caustic toxins show up at other grand Newport cottages. Are the ladies from the luncheon being targeted?

A Mix of Thrillers, Crime Fiction and Suspense from Award-Winning Authors

THOMAS E. RICKS

Everyone Knows But You A Tale of Murder on the Maine Coast

"A crackling procedural about a grieving FBI agent who sets out to solve a murder in Maine. The sturdy whodunit plot is enriched by the author's firm grasp of his setting and a colorful cast of New Englanders who never veer into caricature. A sequel would be welcome." — Publishers Weekly

After his wife and two children are killed in a car crash, Ryan Tapia starts a new life in Maine. But his first case there is a puzzling oddball — the corpse of a fisherman washes up on federal land, while the man's boat drifts into waters that are part of an Indian reservation. Rvan quickly learns the nuances of Maine life as he delves into two illicit coastal trades: hard drugs and rare fish. Many of the locals are happy to see that particular fisherman dead and they are not shy about noting that Ryan must have screwed up pretty badly to be posted to such a remote location as Bangor, Maine.

Ryan works to understand the unforgiving way of life. Adrift on a sailboat one day, he encounters a man from the Malpense tribe who witnessed something that fateful day.

HEATHER WEBBER A Certain Kind of Starlight

Everyone knows that Addie Fullbright can't keep a secret. Yet, twelve years ago, as her best friend lay dying, she entrusted Addie with the biggest secret of all. One so shattering that Addie felt she had to leave her hometown of Starlight, Alabama, to keep from revealing a devastating truth to someone she cares for deeply. Now she's living a lonely life, keeping everyone at a distance. But when her beloved aunt, the woman who helped raise her, gets a shocking diagnosis and asks her to come back to Starlight to help run the family bakery, Addie knows it's finally time to go home again.

Tessa Jane Wingrove-Fullbright feels like she's failing. She's always been able to see the lighter side of life but lately darkness has descended. Her world is suddenly in shambles after a painful breakup and her favorite aunt's unexpected health troubles. When she's called back to Starlight to help her aunt, she's barely holding herself together and fears she'll never find her way back to who she used to be.

Under the bright side of the stars, Addie and Tessa Jane come to see that magic can be found in trusting yourself, that falling apart is simply a chance to rise up again, stronger than ever.

PAULA BRACKSTON The Haunting of Hecate Cavendish The Hecate Cavendish Series

England, 1881. Hereford cathedral stands sentinel over the city, keeping its secrets, holding long-forgotten souls in its stony embrace. Hecate Cavendish speeds through the cobbled streets on her bicycle, skirts hitched daringly high, heading for her new life as Assistant Librarian.

This is no ordinary collection of books. The cathedral houses an ancient chained library, wisdom guarded for centuries, mysteries and stories locked onto its worn, humble shelves. The most prized artifact, however, is the medieval world map which hangs next to Hecate's desk. Little does she know how much the curious people and mythical creatures depicted on it will come to mean to her. Nor does she suspect that there are lost souls waiting for her in the haunted cathedral. Some will become her dearest friends. Some will seek her help in finding peace. Others will put her in great peril, and, as she quickly learns, threaten the lives of everyone she loves.

Soon, Uli and his friends in West Berlin hatch a plan to get Lise and her unborn child out of East Germany, but as distance and suspicion bleed into their lives and as weeks turn to months, how long can true love survive in the divided city?

MARCIA LYNN MCCLURE Sweet Cherry Ray

Black Jack Haley and his band of outlaws spent a lot of time in the town of Blue Water. Even the fact that retired Texas Ranger Arthur Ray lived nearby did nothing to discourage Black Jack and his boys from spending their time and stolen money in the small western town. Still, though the outlaws had never harmed any of Blue Water's citizens, Arthur Ray knew men like Black Jack could turn on a dime. An outlaw was an outlaw and not to be trusted.

The Texas Ranger protected his family as best he could — demanding that his daughter, Cherry, dress as a man and remain as inconspicuous as possible. Though Cherry secretly longed for the feminine attire the other young ladies in Blue Water enjoyed, she understood her father's concerns. And so, life was fairly uneventful for the people of Blue Water, including Cherry Ray — until the day when a stranger rode into town.

Handsome and intimidating, the stranger kept his business to himself. Yet, by the look of the gun at his hip, folks began to wonder if another outlaw had arrived in Blue Water. But that didn't keep Cherry Ray and her curious nature from crossing the stranger's path one too many times . . .

CARLA LAUREANO The Larkspur House

SIMULTANEOUS RELEASE

Haven Ridge Rose Cameron holds the record for bad decisions. Not only did she drop out of grad school to get married, but her husband wasn't who he pretended to be, threatening both her reputation and her freedom. With no job, no friends, and her bank account nearing zero, an online job posting offers a place to escape from her shattered life: caretaker of a historic home in the tiny town of Haven Ridge, Colorado.

But the Larkspur House isn't the refuge she expected. For one thing, it's not just a house, but a derelict, honest-to-goodness American castle. For another, the co-inheritor of the house — the brusque, uptight William Parker — makes no secret of his desire to see her gone. He's more interested in selling the place before it crumbles into the Colorado landscape or bankrupts the trust that maintains it.

Just when Rose is convinced she's made yet another terrible decision, she stumbles upon hidden secrets within Larkspur House's history that makes Haven Ridge her forever home.

The Summer Club

Tucked between old cedars and a spring-fed lake in Massachusetts, the Mayhaven beach club has long been the ultimate escape to understated exclusivity. It's the place where Darcy Birch is supposed to be experiencing the best summer of her life, but there are a few things standing in her way. Her mother won't stop hovering over her, her father is consumed by his job as president of Mayhaven, where she works as a summer camp counselor, and her neurodivergent brother is struggling to live with a measure of independence not everyone is ready for.

Then there is the matter of the new neighbors. Flick Creevy and his mother and stepfather have arrived in town, parking their enormous RV, not to mention the allnight music and clouds of marijuana, in the Birches's perfectly landscaped backyard.

SIMULTANEOUS RELEASE

Pushed to get a job at Mayhaven by his mother, who had her eyes on a new life for their family, Flick's own eyes have been opened to the ways of the upper crust. Even though Mayhaven prides itself on being an inclusive association of good New England families with good New England values, the fact remains: either you're on the inside or the outside.

How to Kiss Your Enemy A Sweet Romantic Comedy

When the Tatum Elliott shows up to run the catering kitchen at my family's farm and event center, I don't trust her any more than I did back in culinary school. But like it or not, she's here. On my territory. My turf. In the kitchen that shares a building with my farm-to-table restaurant. And she can't seem to keep her hands off my parmesan. Our old rivalry flares to life faster than a flambé, but there's something else flaming between us too. And it's heating up quicker than anything we're making in the kitchen. But I can't forget that Tatum is the daughter of Christopher Elliott — America's most famous chef. She belongs in a big city, in a restaurant with her name on it. Not running the catering arm of Stonebrook Farm. Whatever her reasons for being here now, I can't see her permanently walking away from the fame and fortune her father can offer her, no matter how well she fits in on the farm — how well she fits with me. She'll leave eventually — I'm sure of it. I just have to make sure that when she does, she doesn't take my heart with her.

PATIENCE GRIFFIN Once Upon a Cabin Sweet Home, Alaska

Tori and McKenna St. James have been living comfortably on their trust funds in Dallas. But their uncle Monty, keeper of the purse strings, decides to push them out of their comfort zones by requiring them to spend one year in Alaska or lose their inheritance. Initially the sisters are stunned, but they aren't willing to back down from the challenge.

Tori is sent to a primitive homestead outside the tiny town of Sweet Home. She had been prepared to forego fashion magazines and lattes, but not electricity and running water! Will her wilderness guide, Jesse Montana, teach her to survive, or send her fleeing back to civilization? Meanwhile, outdoorsy McKenna is stuck within the concrete walls of an Anchorage bank. Her sexy boss Luke McAvoy is tasked with teaching her the business, but what he's really doing is tempting her. Not that she's the type to fall for a stuffed suit like him.

Tori and McKenna find much-needed solace with Sweet Home's Sisterhood of the Quilt. Will this crafty group of women be up to the challenge of teaching two outsiders how to sew — and perhaps how to love?

BAILEE ABBOTT Kill Them with Canvas A Paint by Murder Mystery

Chloe Abbington and her sister, Izzie, are enjoying huge success running Paint with a View, their paint party business in the tranquil western New York lakeside town of Whisper Cove. Now, their aunt Constance — president of the local chapter of the Chautauqua Sisterhood — has hooked them up with a gig hosting a Halloween painting party. The guests will be painting a local ghost legend who died a hundred years earlier and rises from the lake every October to haunt anyone who dares venture out on All Hallows' Eve.

The event seems to be going off without a hitch, until Chloe overhears an argument between Constance and Viola Finnwinkle about the fate of the local chapter. The next morning, Viola's body is discovered floating face down near the town ferryboat dock, her long red hair spread around her. Eerily, the image is an exact replica of a painting Chloe and Izzie had discovered at the event the night before.

What's more, the police find Constance's purple knit hat lying on the ground near the crime scene. Frantic that she might be charged with murder, she begs Chloe and Izzie to help her.

Miss Caroline has doubts when she receives an urgent invitation from a London law firm to discuss her late father's estate. After all, the dishonored Earl of Morton died without a pound sterling to pass on to his two daughters. But while immersing herself in helping Mrs. Frogerton's capricious daughter navigate the high social season, Caroline meets with a cagey lawyer, Mr. Smith, who shares life-altering news — the earl composed a second will, leaving behind an undisclosed fortune.

Mrs. Frogerton, however, is thoroughly unimpressed with the firm's conduct and suspicious of their true motives. Her instinct proves right when the two ladies find the office ransacked, staff in turmoil, and Mr. Smith missing. The full weight of the situation doesn't sink in until Mr. Smith dies following a brutal attack on the street — discovered with an empty envelope bearing Caroline's name in his pocket.

With a connection forming between two deaths at the firm, Caroline can't imagine why anyone would kill twice over the contents of a will.

LESLIE GOULD By Evening's Light Amish Memories

Treva Zimmerman finds herself at a crossroads in life after a heartbreaking failed relationship. Returning to Lancaster County to visit her Amish grandparents and elderly aunt, Treva plans to leave her Plain heritage behind for a fresh start in Alaska. Torn between the expectations of her community and her own desires, she seeks to follow her own path — but all that changes when her aunt suffers a heart attack.

As her aunt recounts her own past — a poignant journey through Cold War Germany and a desire to escape her Plain life to search for a lost love — Treva is determined to discover the whereabouts of Rosene's former sweetheart. Amid the turmoil, their former farmhand Gabe Johnson returns unexpectedly, throwing Treva's plans into further disarray.

While working hard to save the farm and explore her own destiny, Treva confronts her ties to her heritage and must decide if she will embrace her family's legacy or break free from the pressures of her past to forge a life of her own.

PATRICIA RAYBON Truth Be Told An Annalee Spain Mystery

On a lovely June night in 1924, amateur detective Annalee Spain is mingling at a high-class political fundraiser in the lush backyard garden of famed political fixer Cooper Coates. When Coates's daughter discovers a pretty stranger dead in her father's garden shed, Annalee is thrust onto the case just as she's reeling from another recent discovery — a handwritten letter, found buried in her own garden, that reveals the identity of her mother.

Not ready to face the truth about her hidden past, Annalee throws herself into solving the mystery of the young woman's demise. With the help of her pastor boyfriend Jack Blake, her orphaned buddy Eddie, and her trustworthy church friends, Annalee follows the clues to three seemingly disconnected settings — a traveling carnival set up downtown, a Black civic club, and a prestigious white seminary on the outskirts of Denver. Intriguing advice also comes from a famous, real-life Denver visitor. But is Annalee on the right track or just running in circles, fleeing from conflicts racing in her heart?

Cole and Laila Are Just Friends

Cole Kimball and Laila Olivet have been inseparable since they could crawl. And they've never thought about each other that way. Except for when they have. Rarely. Once in a while, sure. But seriously... hardly ever.

Cole is the only person (apart from blood relatives) who's seen Laila in her oversized, pink, plastic, Sophia Loren glasses. Laila is always the first person to taste test any new dish Cole creates in his family's restaurant . . . even though she has the refined palate of a kindergartener.

Most importantly, Cole and Laila are always talking. About everything.

CARA GRANDLE

The Rose Sisters of the Porcelain Doll

Under the thumb of her overbearing half-brother, Rose Briggs fights for survival on the treacherous Oregon Trail. Her sole desire is to claim independence and establish a mercantile close to her beloved Porcelain Doll sisters. Unbeknownst to her, she becomes entangled in the perilous schemes of a cunning sibling duo, Boone and Sandy, masterminds of a ruthless ring of thieves.

Amos Pate, a former outlaw, has shed his past and the weight of destitution, determined never to steal again. Yet, when his loved ones' lives hang in the balance, he is torn between honoring his pledge and taking action.

United by circumstance, Rose and Amos forge ahead as allies, forever evading the clutches of a relentless criminal gang. Their hopes, dreams, and existence hinge on outsmarting their adversaries, for failure would mean surrendering all they hold dear.

LORRI DUDLEY The Marquis's Pursuit The Leeward Islands Series

As the son of a duke, Maxwell Oliver Weld, Marquis of Daventry, is allowed entry into the finest of London's ballrooms, access to political figures, and advice from the best physicians. Yet, his wealth and contacts won't heal his friend, Charlie, who's dying from consumption. Hopeful for a miracle, Max persuades Charlie to sail across the Atlantic to stay in the Artesian Hotel on the island of Nevis and bathe in its famous healing springs.

Evelyn Mairi Sheraton's fiery side has long since been snuffed out. Hunted by a vengeful man from her past, she will do whatever it takes to keep her precious secret safe, even work for the demeaning Artesian Hotel owner, Edward Rousseau. However, when a jaunty marquis and his ailing friend arrive, sparks ignite, but Evelyn fears that revealing her secrets will burn her to ash.

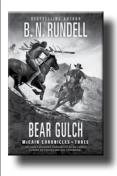

The elusive Evelyn may tend to Charlie's well-being, but she stirs Max's protective nature. He'd like nothing more than to remove her from the employment of Edward Rousseau, yet that might endanger Charlie's health even more.

B. N. RUNDELL Bear Gulch McCain Chronicles

Wherever he looked, he saw everything through the lens of his commitment, the covenant he made with his wife to find her twin boys, deserters from the Union Army during a time of war. But in the wild of the frontier, in a time of discovery, conflict, and more, fate continually dealt him a difficult hand. Wherever he went, conflict put him in the middle of strife, hardship, and battle.

First, against the rampaging Sioux under Red Cloud, the chief determined to rid the territory of all white men. Then against godless outlaws as they stole gold claims and killed prospectors. Add to that lethal mix the self-appointed vigilantes, and he had to deal death with his Colt and his Winchester.

Yet he continued his journey, rescuing desolate and desperate youngsters, helping those in need, making friends and enemies, and believed he was on the trail of his sons. But would he find them in time, or would they heed the lure of riches and the voices of sirens and go astray?

Gun Thunder A Bartlett Brothers Western

Jack Noble built the Rafter N Ranch with his own blood, sweat, and tears — the pride of Montana and the envy of every cattleman in the surrounding territory. His eldest grandson Gabriel Bartlett inherited Noble's fighting spirit, necessary to survive in an unforgiving land. Daniel, Gabriel's younger brother, has the strength and discipline to work the ranch, but lacks true grit when faced with a truly bad man.

Gabriel is now the notorious Noble Bartlett, a quick-draw gunfighter surly as a sidewinder. So when he learns about rustlers targeting the Rafter N, he rides hard for home. There he finds Daniel holding down the ranch. He's a hardworking family man who puts his trust in law and order. But the Bartlett brothers face brutal killers who know no mercy. They'll need Daniel's righteous resolve and Noble's vicious violence to protect their family and send evil men to the hell that they deserve . . .

ROBERT VAUGHAN A Heap of Killing Lucas Cain

First introduced in Vaughan's A Rambling Man, Lucas Cain is back in the saddle, searching for some peace of mind and some solace after the loss of his wife and newborn child. He has continued his traveling from town to town, an itinerant lawman focused on capturing the bad guys for whatever amount is on the wanted papers for them. Local sheriffs and marshals, though initially wary of him, come to love him because he does what he does without pay — other than the reward money.

Cain finds himself in some tough spots, but always manages to stay one step ahead of the outlaws he seeks. Dudley Stewart and his gang just might be the ones to stop that, though . . .

On a lazy crime spree throughout the southwest, Stewart and his renegades have, up to now, been cutting a path of death, destruction, and loss through many a town . . . until Lucas Cain gets wind of their actions and gets it into his head to end the reign of terror with a hail of bullets . . .

JAMES J. GRIFFIN Rough Riders of the Ragged Rimrock A Texas Ranger Will Kirkpatrick Novel

When Texas Ranger Will Kirkpatrick and his young partner, Jonas Peterson, were informed they were to man a new Ranger post in Sweetwater, they knew they'd have plenty of trouble on their hands. Their new territory encompassed much of the Texas Panhandle, including most of the Texas Caprock, the two hundred-plus-mile-long escarpment separating the Llano Estacado from the lower lands to the east and south. The Caprock was a jumble of canyons, arroyos, and draws, interspersed with high cliffs and razor-sharp ridges. It was the perfect place for outlaws to operate with impunity.

Will and Jonas's first pursuit finds them chasing a gang of murderous bank robbers. Unbeknownst to them, at the same time another, even more vicious gang of killers is preying on the stage coaches, which are the only means of public transportation and mail delivery in most of the rugged, sparsely populated region.

Will and Jonas are willing to tackle any outlaws they come across, but can only two Rangers flush out the myriad outlaws plaguing the region? They will, or die trying.

DAN J. STEVENS Landgrabbers

When Deputy Johnny Lund came to Mallard City, he thought he had an easy job ahead of him. All he had to do was keep the peace while the land company ran a lottery to distribute the Mallard land. Lund wasn't looking for trouble and didn't expect to find any. But trouble found Johnny Lund — and he knew that before it was over he would have to take sides in the most terrible gunfight Mallard City had ever seen.

Every time the wheel spun a piece of land was given away. It should have been simple — but there was something about the whole situation that bothered Johnny Lund. It might have been Chauncey Ryan, the crooked gambler who was running the giant land lottery. It might have been Babs, Ryan's daughter, who looked innocent until she proved she wasn't. It might have been Plug Tully, an ugly gunslick who thought a bullet solved everything.

Johnny didn't know what was wrong. The only thing he did know was that before the night was over, someone would be dead.

Western Fiction That Has Stood the Test of Time

CHUCK MARTIN Bring Me Wild Horses

They say once in a hundred years a man is born with the gift to communicate with wild horses. Centaur King was such a man. He could walk into a corral filled with fighting horses and calm them with a few words and the touch of his hand. His young protégé, Pegasus Bronte, was almost as good. Together they traveled through the West taming the wild horses no one else could handle.

Their stop in Lanthrope, Texas, was filled with surprises. They were faced with plenty of wild horses, which pleased both King and Peg, and the horses were handled with ease and confidence. Jealous and vindictive horse owners and outlaws were a little harder to deal with, but they prevailed.

But of all the challenges King and Peg had to face, nothing was harder to deal with than the attention they received from the sheriff's sister and his daughter. Horses, they could master. Opposition, they could handle. Outlaws, they could outsmart. But females, what do you do with them? It was enough to drive them to distraction, but would it be enough to break up their partnership?

RAY HOGAN Omaha Crossing

Sheriff John Glade, former gunslinger and convict turned lawman, is getting along fine in Omaha Crossing — until he is forced to kill the son of the town's most prominent citizen, Mayor Gideon Teague. When Teague demands Glade's resignation because of the killing, Glade refuses to give up his star. Tensions rapidly build, and Glade soon realizes his very life is in danger.

Teague had long seen Glade as a threat to his authority. He had hired Glade because he felt he could use Glade's former life against him to get special favors. But when Glade refused to be manipulated, Teague started to look for ways to oust him. Now, he uses his son's death to turn public opinion against the sheriff. When Teague's other son is killed while in jail, Teague is quick to blame Glade again.

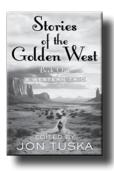

With threats of a lynching or an ambush, how much more can Glade endure? Whom can he trust? Who will stand with him?

JACKSON GREGORY White Water Valley

Bill Mountain, also known as Don Montana, is in a battle over White Water Valley. His father, Jim, had made arrangements to purchase the valley from Johnny Lane, a wild, footloose guy who never stayed long in one place. The money was still being held in the bank, collecting interest, waiting for Lane to send the deed.

Since then, Jim and Johnny had both died and the banker, Lew Houston, was the only one still alive who was aware of the agreement. Everyone believed Bill was the rightful owner of White Water Valley until Buck Andros showed up with a young man who claimed to be Johnny Lane's son. He claimed the $40,000 was for a lease and the lease had expired. Now he wants the money and the property.

It's up to Bill to prove the man is lying.

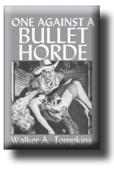

And if that's not enough, Bill's kid brother, Juan, has been framed for murder and Bill has to keep him hidden until he can find the evidence to clear him. But there seems to be a spy on the ranch who is revealing Juan's hiding spot as soon as he changes locations. It's not just the Montana family's way of life that is at stake. To fail could cost them everything, including their lives.

WALKER A. TOMPKINS One Against a Bullet Horde

When his girlfriend had told him to get a ranch of his own, build a home fit for a wife, and then talk to her about marriage, Wes Banning had homesteaded a section of rich graze at the mouth of Massacre Canyon. Banning had proved up on his claim and obtained six hundred head for a starter herd which qualified him to take out a five-year government l him to take out a five-year governmen lease on the prime grazing land in the high pass.

Banning had held his little Circle B Ranch against gun-slung rustlers and sharp-toothed catamounts, but now his powerful Butcherblock neighbor was getting ready to crowd him off his land by means of legal trickery. Butcherblock needed that grassland to survive, but Banning knew that if he allowed them access, Butcherblock would overgraze the land and it would soon become a desert.

Expanding his overgrazed holdings had become a matter of life or death for Butcherblock's ruthless boss . . . and if the word of the law could not move Wes quick enough, the bullets of a killer crew were waiting . . .
